Background:

I have recently completed my Bachelors of Commerce (Bcomm) degree at the University of Stellenbosch. I was enrolled at the Economic and Management Sciences faculty in Stellenbosch. I have majored in Financial Accounting and Logistics, as well as completing courses in Economics, Transport Economics, Project Management and Marketing which are the most notable. I graduated on the 8th of December 2011.

I am also in the process of completing a Masters course in Teaching English as a Foreign language (TEFL). The program is a 1year online course, which I am completing via a correspondents educational institution called Globaltefl.uk. I will be finishing the course in January 2012.

I have always been very interested in the prospect of teaching and becoming a teacher in addition to my Bcomm degree. I have been coaching for 5 years at various primary schools in South Africa and I am very passionate about my work. I take a keen interest in the educational, social and physical development of learners.

With my coaching experience over the years, I have learnt how to manage and to deal with young groups of learners (6-14 yrs), and how to successfully engage and interact with them to get the best possible outcome for their personal growth.

My involvement in these schools is where my interest and passion for teaching learners has evolved. I have a strong desire and passion to take any opportunity and teach in Asia. I have heard and read so many wonderful things about the Asian culture and would really love the chance to work in such a beautiful place.

I am also currently looking into the prospect of furthering my education by doing a post graduate in teaching, as it is a career I am really interested in pursuing.

- Fully knowledgeable with Micros hospitality systems, which are the common computer programs used at most restaurants and franchises around South Africa.

About myself:

Through the process of completing my degree I did not only grow in age and maturity, I however learnt about ways and means of life, something no highly acclaimed text book can do. I became mindful of different people, their cultures and behaviors. I learnt to adapt to different learning environments, I learnt to embrace my achievement in a humble manner and accept that my weaknesses allowed for a learning opportunity.

In my years at the University of Stellenbosch I consider myself an individual that found great joy in participating in extra-mural activities that were offered, sport is a must in my day to day life and I believe that a healthy body leads to healthy mind.

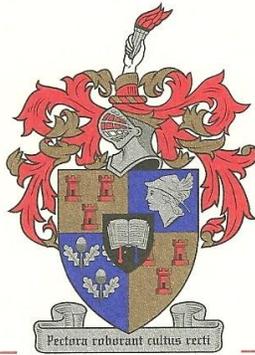

When I take the time to self-reflect, I would like to consider myself a strong working, dedicated individual that never fails to complete what I start. I have a great interest in learning more about the cultures and traditions of other in a new and challenging environment.

Being 24 years old, I feel as though I am mature enough to identify my strengths and be realistic with regards to the decisions I make. I have a strong desire and interest in teaching abroad. I would be honoured and privileged to be granted the opportunity to teach in Asia, and will embrace it with open arms.
