January 2015

To whomever it may concern.

My name is Riaan Groenewald. I am an aspiring environmentalist looking to make a positive contribution to the health of the environment as well as the ways in which we perceive the environment. I am currently finalising my studies toward the Master's degree in Environmental Management. I am already in possession of a B. Town and Regional Planning (Cum Laude).

My passion for the environment is the driver behind my constant self-empowering decisions. I am continuously on the lookout for ways in which I can enrich my academic knowledge and gain the capacity to make a valuable contribution to environmental practise. I am hard working, innovative, loyal and punctual. A diverse range of interests in extracurricular sports, social and cultural activities catalyses my balanced lifestyle. My innovative nature enables me to create interesting interactions with colleagues and lays the foundation for exciting and forward-thinking work. I learn avidly and continuously challenge myself to new experiences.

Thank you for your time to consider me for the position.
